14 reduced amount or the limit under s. 895.04 (4).

15 (7) Damages recoverable under this section against a long-term care provider, 16 and an employee of a long-term care provider acting within the scope of his or her 17 employment and providing long-term care services, are subject to the provisions of 18 s. 895.045.

19 (8) Evidence of any compensation for bodily injury received from sources other 20 than the defendant to compensate the claimant for the injury is admissible in an 21 action to recover damages for negligence by a long-term care provider. This section 22 does not limit the substantive or procedural rights of persons who have claims based 23 upon subrogation.

24 SECTION 23m. 895.043 (6) of the statutes is created to read:

1 895.043 (6) LIMITATION ON DAMAGES. Punitive damages received by the plaintiff

6 340.01 (35), a snowmobile as defined under s. 340.01 (58a), an all-terrain vehicle as

11 SECTION 28. 895.044 of the statutes is created to read:

14 for commencing, using, or continuing an action, special proceeding, counterclaim, 15 defense, cross complaint, or appeal to which any of the following applies:

16 (a) The action, special proceeding, counterclaim, defense, cross complaint, or 17 appeal was commenced, used, or continued in bad faith, solely for purposes of 18 harassing or maliciously injuring another.

19 (b) The party or the party’s attorney knew, or should have known, that the 20 action, special proceeding, counterclaim, defense, cross complaint, or appeal was 21 without any reasonable basis in law or equity and could not be supported by a good 22 faith argument for an extension, modification, or reversal of existing law.

23 (2) Upon either party’s motion made at any time during the proceeding or upon 24 judgment, if a court finds, upon clear and convincing evidence, that sub. (1) (a) or (b) 25 applies to an action or special proceeding commenced or continued by a plaintiff or

1 a counterclaim, defense, or cross complaint commenced, used, or continued by a 2 defendant, the court:

3 (a) May, if the party served with the motion withdraws, or appropriately 4 corrects, the action, special proceeding, counterclaim, defense, or cross complaint 5 within 21 days after service of the motion, or within such other period as the court 6 may prescribe, award to the party making the motion, as damages, the actual costs 7 incurred by the party as a result of the action, special proceeding, counterclaim, 8 defense, or cross complaint, including the actual reasonable attorney fees the party 9 incurred, including fees incurred in any dispute over the application of this section.
10 In determining whether to award, and the appropriate amount of, damages under 11 this paragraph, the court shall take into consideration the timely withdrawal or 12 correction made by the party served with the motion.

13 (b) Shall, if a withdrawal or correction under par. (a) is not timely made, award 14 to the party making the motion, as damages, the actual costs incurred by the party 15 as a result of the action, special proceeding, counterclaim, defense, or cross 16 complaint, including the actual reasonable attorney fees the party incurred, 17 including fees incurred in any dispute over the application of this section.

18 (3) If a party makes a motion under sub. (2), a copy of that motion and a notice 19 of the date of the hearing on that motion shall be served on any party who is not 20 represented by counsel only by personal service or by sending the motion to the party 21 by registered mail.

22 (4) If an award under this section is affirmed upon appeal, the appellate court 23 shall, upon completion of the appeal, remand the action to the trial court to award 24 damages to compensate the successful party for the actual reasonable attorney fees 25 the party incurred in the appeal.

1 (5) If the appellate court finds that sub. (1) (a) or (b) applies to an appeal, the 2 appellate court shall, upon completion of the appeal, remand the action to the trial 3 court to award damages to compensate the successful party for all the actual 4 reasonable attorney fees the party incurred in the appeal. An appeal is subject to this 5 subsection in its entirety if any element necessary to succeed on the appeal is 6 supported solely by an argument that is described under sub. (1) (a) or (b).

7 (6) The costs and fees awarded under subs. (2), (4), and (5) may be assessed 8 fully against the party bringing the action, special proceeding, cross complaint, 9 defense, counterclaim, or appeal or the attorney representing the party, or both, 10 jointly and severally, or may be assessed so that the party and the attorney each pay 11 a portion of the costs and fees.

12 (7) This section does not apply to criminal actions or civil forfeiture actions.
13 Subsection (5) does not apply to appeals under s. 809.107, 809.30, or 974.05 or to 14 appeals of criminal or civil forfeiture actions.

15 SECTION 29. 895.045 (3) of the statutes is created to read:

16 895.045 (3) PRODUCT LIABILITY. (a) In an action by any person to recover 17 damages for injuries caused by a defective product based on a claim of strict liability, 18 the fact finder shall first determine if the injured party has the right to recover 19 damages. To do so, the fact finder shall determine what percentage of the total causal 20 responsibility for the injury resulted from the contributory negligence of the injured 21 person, what percentage resulted from the defective condition of the product, and 22 what percentage resulted from the contributory negligence of any other person.

23 (b) If the injured party's percentage of total causal responsibility for the injury 24 is greater than the percentage resulting from the defective condition of the product, 25 the injured party may not, based on the defect in the product, recover damages from

1 the manufacturer, distributor, seller, or any other person responsible for placing the 2 product in the stream of commerce.

3 (c) If the injured party's percentage of total causal responsibility for the injury 4 is equal to or less than the percentage resulting from the defective condition of the 5 product, the injured party may recover but the damages recovered by the injured 6 party shall be diminished by the percentage attributed to that injured party.

7 (d) If multiple defendants are alleged to be responsible for the defective 8 condition of the product, and the injured party is not barred from recovery under par.
9 (b), the fact finder shall determine the percentage of causal responsibility of each 10 product defendant for the defective condition of the product. The judge shall then 11 multiply that percentage of causal responsibility of each product defendant for the 12 defective condition of the product by the percentage of causal responsibility for the 13 injury to the person attributed to the defective product. The result of that 14 multiplication is the individual product defendant's percentage of responsibility for 15 the damages to the injured party. A product defendant whose responsibility for the 16 damages to the injured party is 51 percent or more of the total responsibility for the 17 damages to the injured party is jointly and severally liable for all of the damages to 18 the injured party. The responsibility of a product defendant whose responsibility for 19 the damages to the injured party is less than 51 percent of the total responsibility 20 for the damages to the injured party is limited to that product defendant's percentage 21 of responsibility for the damages to the injured party.

22 (e) If the injured party is not barred from recovery under par. (b), the fact that 23 the injured party's causal responsibility for the injury is greater than an individual 24 product defendant's responsibility for the damages to the injured party does not bar 25 the injured party from recovering from that individual product defendant.

(f) This subsection does not apply to actions based on negligence or a breach of warranty.

895.046 Remedies against manufacturers, distributors, sellers, and promoters of products. (1) DEFINITIONS. In this section:

1 (4) REMEDY WITHOUT SPECIFIC PRODUCT IDENTIFICATION. Subject to sub. (5), if a 2 claimant cannot meet the burden of proof under sub. (3), the manufacturer, 3 distributor, seller, or promoter of a product may be held liable for an action under sub.
4 (2) only if all of the following apply:

5 (a) The claimant proves all of the following:

6 1. That no other lawful process exists for the claimant to seek any redress from 7 any other person for the injury or harm.

19 the specific product that allegedly caused the claimant's injury or harm was 20 manufactured, distributed, sold, or promoted.

21 c. Was distributed or sold without labeling or any distinctive characteristic that 22 identified the manufacturer, distributor, seller, or promoter.

23 (b) The action names, as defendants, those manufacturers of a product who 24 collectively manufactured at least 80 percent of all products sold in this state during 25 the relevant production period by all manufacturers of the product in existence

1 during the relevant production period that are chemically identical to the specific 2 product that allegedly caused the claimant's injury or harm.

3 (5) LIMITATION ON LIABILITY. No manufacturer, distributor, seller, or promoter 4 of a product is liable under sub. (4) if more than 25 years have passed between the 5 date that the manufacturer, distributor, seller, or promoter of a product last 6 manufactured, distributed, sold, or promoted the specific product chemically 7 identical to the specific product that allegedly caused the claimant's injury and the 8 date that the claimant's cause of action accrued.

9 (6) APPORTIONMENT OF LIABILITY. If more than one manufacturer, distributor, 10 seller, or promoter of a product is found liable for the claimant's injury or harm under 11 subs. (4) and (5), the court shall apportion liability among those manufacturers, 12 distributors, sellers, and promoters, but that liability shall be several and not joint.

13 SECTION 31. 895.047 of the statutes is created to read:

14 895.047 Product liability. (1) LIABILITY OF MANUFACTURER. In an action for 15 damages caused by a manufactured product based on a claim of strict liability, a 16 manufacturer is liable to a claimant if the claimant establishes all of the following 17 by a preponderance of the evidence:

18 (a) That the product is defective because it contains a manufacturing defect, 19 is defective in design, or is defective because of inadequate instructions or warnings.
20 A product contains a manufacturing defect if the product departs from its intended 21 design even though all possible care was exercised in the manufacture of the product.
22 A product is defective in design if the foreseeable risks of harm posed by the product 23 could have been reduced or avoided by the adoption of a reasonable alternative 24 design by the manufacturer and the omission of the alternative design renders the 25 product not reasonably safe. A product is defective because of inadequate

1 instructions or warnings only if the foreseeable risks of harm posed by the product 2 could have been reduced or avoided by the provision of reasonable instructions or 3 warnings by the manufacturer and the omission of the instructions or warnings 4 renders the product not reasonably safe.

5 (b) That the defective condition rendered the product unreasonably dangerous 6 to persons or property.

7 (c) That the defective condition existed at the time the product left the control 8 of the manufacturer.

9 (d) That the product reached the user or consumer without substantial change 10 in the condition in which it was sold.

11 (e) That the defective condition was a cause of the claimant's damages.

12 (2) LIABILITY OF SELLER OR DISTRIBUTOR. (a) A seller or distributor of a product 13 is not liable based on a claim of strict liability to a claimant unless the manufacturer 14 would be liable under sub. (1) and any of the following applies:

15 1. The claimant proves by a preponderance of the evidence that the seller or 16 distributor has contractually assumed one of the manufacturer's duties to 17 manufacture, design, or provide warnings or instructions with respect to the 18 product.

19 2. The claimant proves by a preponderance of the evidence that neither the 20 manufacturer nor its insurer is subject to service of process within this state.

21 3. A court determines that the claimant would be unable to enforce a judgment 22 against the manufacturer or its insurer.

23 (b) The court shall dismiss a product seller or distributor as a defendant based 24 on par. (a) 2. if the manufacturer or its insurer submits itself to the jurisdiction of the 25 court in which the suit is pending.

1 (3) DEFENSES. (a) If the defendant proves by clear and convincing evidence that 2 at the time of the injury the claimant was under the influence of any controlled 3 substance or controlled substance analog to the extent prohibited under s. 346.63 (1) 4 (a), or had an alcohol concentration, as defined in s. 340.01 (1v), of 0.08 or more, there 5 shall be a rebuttable presumption that the claimant's intoxication or drug use was 6 the cause of his or her injury.

7 (b) Evidence that the product, at the time of sale, complied in material respects 8 with relevant standards, conditions, or specifications adopted or approved by a 9 federal or state law or agency shall create a rebuttable presumption that the product 10 is not defective.

11 (c) The damages for which a manufacturer, seller, or distributor would 12 otherwise be liable shall be reduced by the percentage of causal responsibility for the 13 claimant's harm attributable to the claimant's misuse, alteration, or modification of 14 the product.

15 (d) The court shall dismiss the claimant's action under this section if the 16 damage was caused by an inherent characteristic of the product that would be 17 recognized by an ordinary person with ordinary knowledge common to the 18 community that uses or consumes the product.

19 (e) A seller or distributor of a product is not liable to a claimant for damages 20 if the seller or distributor receives the product in a sealed container and has no 21 reasonable opportunity to test or inspect the product. This paragraph does not apply 22 if the seller or distributor may be liable under sub. (2) (a) 2. or 3.

23 (4) SUBSEQUENT REMEDIAL MEASURES. In an action for damages caused by a 24 manufactured product based on a claim of strict liability, evidence of remedial 25 measures taken subsequent to the sale of the product is not admissible for the 1 purpose of showing a manufacturing defect in the product, a defect in the design of 2 the product, or a need for a warning or instruction. This subsection does not prohibit 3 the admission of such evidence to show a reasonable alternative design that existed 4 at the time when the product was sold.

5 (5) TIME LIMIT. In any action under this section, a defendant is not liable to a 6 claimant for damages if the product alleged to have caused the damage was 7 manufactured 15 years or more before the claim accrues, unless the manufacturer 8 makes a specific representation that the product will last for a period beyond 15 9 years. This subsection does not apply to an action based on a claim for damages 10 caused by a latent disease.

11 (6) INAPPLICABILITY. This section does not apply to actions based on a claim of 12 negligence or breach of warranty.

9 reasonably relied upon by experts in the particular field in forming opinions or 11 order for the opinion or inference to be admitted. Facts or data that are otherwise
